Lucy is an associate at Le Gros, Buchanan and Paul. Her career began in public defense, where she discovered a passion for litigation. She has litigated personal injury claims, real property disputes, as well as insurance bad faith claims. Lucy has successfully represented clients in all stages of litigation, from mediation through trial, post-trial motions, and appeals.

Lucy received both her Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration and her J.D. from Seattle University cum laude in 2020. While at Seattle University, Lucy interned at the Unemployment Law Project and the Pierce County Prosecuting Attorney's Office.

Lucy has been admitted to practice in Oregon since 2022 and Washington since 2020 as well as the Federal Courts in both states. When she isn't practicing, Lucy is an avid gym-goer and teaches cycling classes.
